PREFACE.

We offer to the public our first Directory of Terre Haute, hoping that it will meet with their approval. No pains have been spared to make this a reliable and useful book. A thorough and systematic canvass of the city has been made, and every effort used to obtain the names of all person who should be represented in a City Directory. Errors have, no doubt, crept in, but we are confident that no more reliable work has ever been published. The city not being properly numbered is some excuse for errors, if any are found, and a Directory cannot be made to give entire satisfaction both to the publishers and citizens until the city is properly and correctly numbered. The publishers would most respectfully suggest to the Council and citizens of Terre Haute to have the city correctly numbered as a convenience to themselves and strangers visiting the city.

The Classified Business Directory contains the names of all business persons, arranged alphabetically, with reference to the various pursuits of the business community, and represents the business of Terre Hause as only a Business Directory can. The Directory of Public Institutions will prove very useful to strangers. The Street Directory is a complete Guide to the streets and avenues of the city, and will be found useful to all.

Our thanks are due our numerous patrons for the liberal patronage extended to us.

The present Volume contains about 7,500 names and on the basis of four persons to each name, makes the population of the City 30,000, showing a decided increase in Population since last years Publication.

SENTINEL

The Newspaper of Indiana,

DAILY, SUNDAY AND WEEKLY.

The Sentinel

Is not only the Completest Newspaper in its presentation of News, and its Comments thereon, but it is a visitor EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR—for 365 days—omitting no publication on any pretext; it is, in this respect, one of the Most Valuable News Mediums in the State.

In short, the SENTINEL means to KEEP AHEAD of the brilliant progress of the State. It means to give voice to the most liberal, enlightened, and purest sentiments of the times, and in this respect claims a distinctly special mission. It depends on its character as for growth and support, and makes no pretext of cheap premiums to secure reluctant supporters.

PRICE OF SUBSCRIPTION.

Daily, and Sunday, $12 per Year.
Sunday, $2 per Year.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE PUBLIC.

Any citizen, who may at any time, day or night, discover a fire, should at once find out the location of the alarm box nearest the fire; procure one of the keys, unlock and open the door of the alarm box, and give one downward pull upon the hook that will be observed in the box, remove the hand from the hook and close the door. Immediately after removing the hand, the alarm will be sounded on the large bell in the Congregational Church steeple, and on gongs at the Engine Houses, and at the Water Works Pump House. Pulling the hook once will cause the alarm to be struck four times. When an alarm is sounded, the location of the fire will be denoted by the bell and gongs striking the number of the box from whence the alarm came. For example: a fire is discovered near the corner of Eleventh and Poplar streets, the alarm would be given from box 3, located at that point, the bells and gongs would strike three strokes, and after a pause of thirteen or fourteen seconds, would strike again, and so on until it had struck four times. If in the teens, the bell will strke thus: If box 13, one for the first figure, and then a pause of about five seconds, and then three strokes, and then a pause of thirteen seconds, and so on, until it strikes four times; and if in the twenties thus: if box 23, it will strike twice for the first figure, and then a pause of five seconds, and then three strokes, and then a pause of thirteen seconds, and so on until it strikes four times.

FOUND—THAT THE CHEAPEST AND best advertising in this city can be obtained by investing in the Wanted, For Sale, For Rent, Lost and Found column of THE MAIL.

Business Men,

LOOK HERE!

The Saturday Evening Mail

AS AN

ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Has these Advantages:

I. It is a weekly Newspaper only, therefore it is read the more carefully and fully.

II. It is published on Saturday Evening, and read on Sunday when husband and wife are together to plan the purchases of the coming week.

III. The most important fact is that it has a vastly larger circulation than any paper in this city—larger than all three of the Daily papers combined.

IV. It goes into nearly every household in this city, and is distributed by News-boys in the surrounding towns.

V. Although only a weekly paper, it usually remains about the house the entire week, and is not thrown carelessly aside after the first reading.

VI. The rates of advertising are so reasonable that advertisers by using the columns of THE MAIL can get more for their money than through any other source.

"The Mail" has the LARGEST CIRCULATION of any Paper in the State, outside of Indianapolis.

PREFACE.

We offer to the public our first Directory of Terre Haute, hoping that it will meet with their approval. No pains have been spared to make this a reliable and useful book. A thorough and systematic canvass of the city has been made, and every effort used to obtain the names of all person who should be represented in a City Directory. Errors have, no doubt, crept in, but we are confident that no more reliable work has ever been published. The city not being properly numbered is some excuse for errors, if any are found, and a Directory cannot be made to give entire satisfaction both to the publishers and citizens until the city is properly and correctly numbered. The publishers would most respectfully suggest to the Council and citizens of Terre Haute to have the city correctly numbered as a convenience to themselves and strangers visiting the city.

The Classified Business Directory contains the names of all business persons, arranged alphabetically, with reference to the various pursuits of the business community, and represents the business of Terre Hause as only a Business Directory can. The Directory of Public Institutions will prove very useful to strangers. The Street Directory is a complete Guide to the streets and avenues of the city, and will be found useful to all.

Our thanks are due our numerous patrons for the liberal patronage extended to us.

The present Volume contains about 7,500 names and on the basis of four persons to each name, makes the population of the City 30,000, showing a decided increase in Population since last years Publication.

SENTINEL

The Newspaper of Indiana.

DAILY, SUNDAY AND WEEKLY.

The Sentinel

Is not only the Completest Newspaper in its presentation of News, and its Comments thereon, but it is a visitor EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR—for 365 days—omitting no publication on any pretext; it is, in this respect, one of the Most Valuable News Mediums in the State.

In short, the SENTINEL means to KEEP AHEAD of the brilliant progress of the State. It means to give voice to the most liberal, enlightened, and purest sentiments of the times, and in this respect claims a distinctly special mission. It depends on its character as for growth and support, and makes no pretext of cheap premiums to secure reluctant supporters.

PRICE OF SUBSCRIPTION.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE PUBLIC.

Any citizen, who may at any time, day or night, discover a fire, should at once find out the location of the alarm box nearest the fire; procure one of the keys, unlock and open the door of the alarm box, and give one downward pull upon the hook that will be observed in the box, remove the hand from the hook and close the door. Immediately after removing the hand, the alarm will be sounded on the large bell in the Congregational Church steeple, and on gongs at the Engine Houses, and at the Water Works Pump House. Pulling the hook once will cause the alarm to be struck four times. When an alarm is sounded, the location of the fire will be denoted by the bell and gongs striking the number of the box from whence the alarm came. For example: a fire is discovered near the corner of Eleventh and Poplar streets, the alarm would be given from box 3, located at that point, the bells and gongs would strike three strokes, and after a pause of thirteen or fourteen seconds, would strike again, and so on until it had struck four times. If in the teens, the bell will strke thus: If box 13, one for the first figure, and then a pause of about five seconds, and then three strokes, and then a pause of thirteen seconds, and so on, until it strikes four times; and if in the twenties thus: if box 23, it will strike twice for the first figure, and then a pause of five seconds, and then three strokes, and then a pause of thirteen seconds, and so on until it strikes four times.

TWO EDITIONS

Of this Paper are published.
The FIRST EDITION, on Friday Evening, has a large circulation among farmers and others living outside of the city.
The SECOND EDITION, on Saturday Evening, goes into the hands of nearly every reading person in the city.
Every week's Issue is, in fact,
TWO NEWSPAPERS
In which all Advertisements appear for ONE CHARGE.

For Sale.

FOR SALE—ADVERTISING SPACE IN THE SATURDAY EVENING MAIL at reasonable rates.

Wanted.

WANTED—ALL TO KNOW THAT THE SATURDAY EVENING MAIL has a larger circulation than any newspaper published outside of Indianapolis, in this State. Also that it is carefully and thoroughly read in the homes of its patrons, and that it is the very best advertising medium in Western Indiana.

Lost.

LOST—LARGE SUMS OF MONEY ARE lost every week by persons who should advertise in THE MAIL.

Found.

FOUND—THAT THE CHEAPEST AND best advertising in this city can be obtained by investing in the Wanted, For Sale, For Rent, Lost and Found column of THE MAIL.

Business Men,

LOOK HERE!

The Saturday Evening Mail

AS AN

ADVERTISING MEDIUM

Has these Advantages:

I. It is a weekly Newspaper only, therefore it is read the more carefully and fully.

II. It is published on Saturday Evening, and read on Sunday when husband and wife are together to plan the purchases of the coming week.

III. The most important fact is that it has a vastly larger circulation than any paper in this city—larger than all three of the Daily papers combined.

IV. It goes into nearly every household in this city, and is distributed by Newsboys in the surrounding towns.

V. Although only a weekly paper, it usually remains about the house the entire week, and is not thrown carelessly aside after the first reading.

VI. The rates of advertising are so reasonable that advertisers by using the columns of THE MAIL can get more for their money than through any other source.

"The Mail" has the LARGEST CIRCULATION of any Paper in the State, outside of Indianapolis.

TERRE HAUTE EXPRESS

NEWSPAPER, BOOK AND JOB

Printing Company,

NO. 3 SOUTH FIFTH STREET.

THE DAILY EXPRESS, as an advertising medium, is too well known to require any extended recommendation; but the reasons which have already given it many patrons, and which will, we hope, give it many more, are as follows:

It has the LARGEST CIRCULATION in the city, and is extensively circulated in all the surrounding towns; it is a first-rate news paper, all the news of the day will be found in it, presented in a clear, intelligible and interesting manner.

THE WEEKLY EXPRESS has also an extensive circulation throughout Indiana and Illinois.

EMELINE FAIRBANKS MEM. LIBRARY

PREFACE.

We offer to the public our Second Annual Directory of Terre Haute, hoping that it will meet with their approval. No pains have been spared to make this a reliable and useful book. A thorough and systematic canvass of the city has been made, and every effort used to obtain the names of all persons who should be represented in a City Directory. Errors have, no doubt, crept in, but we are confident that no more reliable work has ever been published.

The Classified Business Directory contains the names of all business persons, arranged alphabetically, with reference to the various pursuits of the business community, and represents the business of Terre Haute as only a Business Directory can. The Directory of Public Institutions will prove very useful to strangers. The Street Directory is a complete Guide to the streets and avenues of the city, and will be found useful to all.

Our thanks are due our numerous patrons for the liberal patronage extended to us, and solicit their patronage in our future issues.

The present Volume contains about 8,000 names and on the basis of four persons to each name, makes the population of the City 32,000, showing a decided increase in Population since last year's publication.

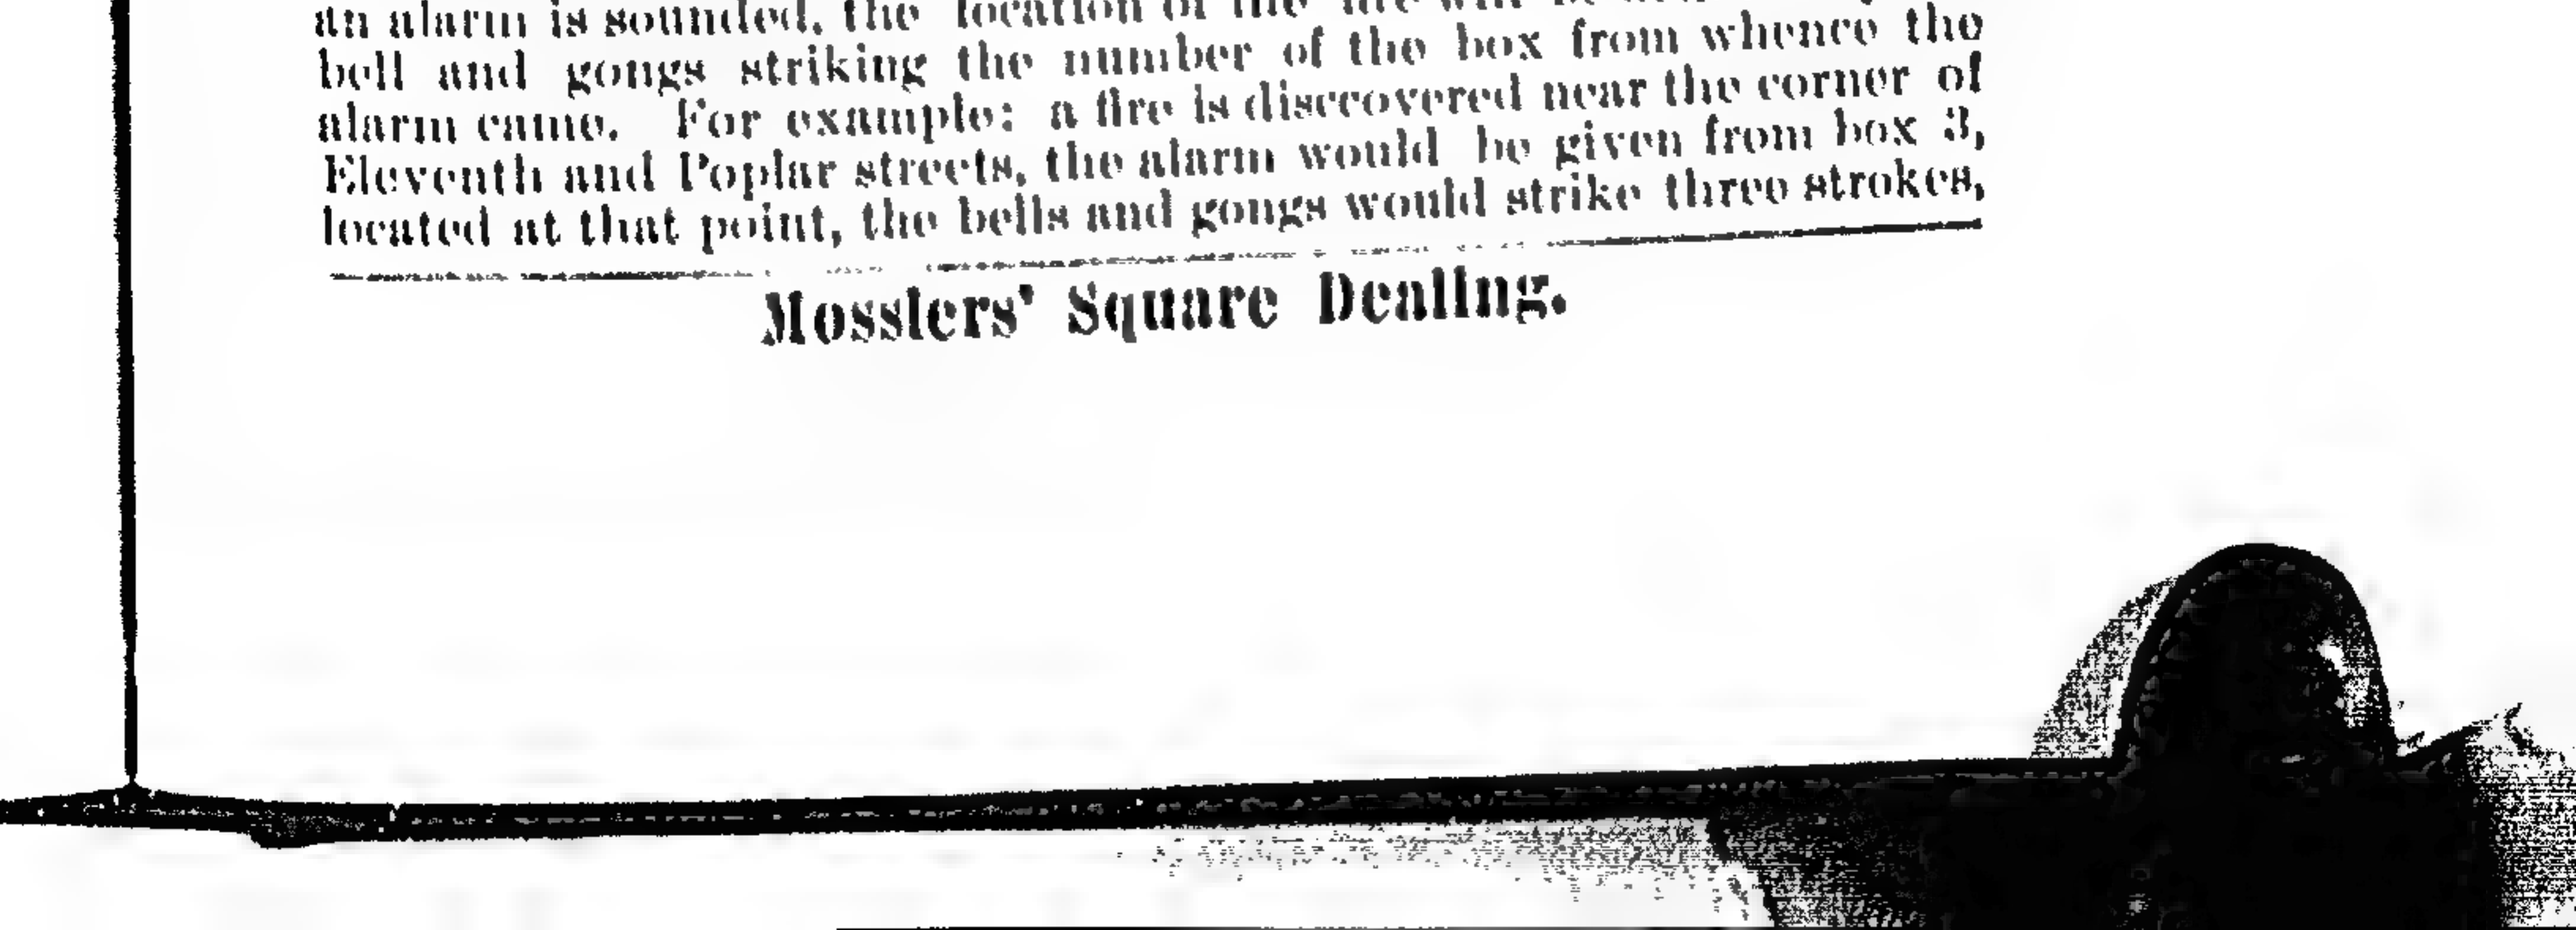
INSTRUCTIONS TO THE PUBLIC.

Any citizen, who may at any time, day or night, discover a fire, should at once find out the location of the alarm box nearest the fire; procure one of the keys, unlock and open the door of the alarm box, and give one downward pull upon the hook that will be observed in the box, remove the hand from the hook and close the door. Immediately after removing the hand, the alarm will be sounded on the large bell in the Congregational Church Steeple, and on gongs at the Engine Houses, and at the Water Works Pump House. Pulling the hook once will cause the alarm to be struck four times. When an alarm is sounded, the location of the fire will be denoted by the bell and gongs striking the number of the box from whence the alarm came. For example: a fire is discovered near the corner of Eleventh and Poplar streets, the alarm would be given from box 3, located at that point, the bells and gongs would strike three strokes,

Mosslers' Square Dealing.



and after a pause of thirteen or fourteen seconds, would strike again, and so on until it had struck four times. If in the teens, the bell will strike thus: If box 13, one for the first figure, and then a pause of about five seconds, and then three strokes, and then a pause of thirteen seconds, and so on, until it strikes four times; and if in the twenties thus: if box 23, it will strike twice for the first figure, and then a pause of five seconds, and then three strokes, and then a pause of thirteen seconds, and so on until it strikes four times.

PREFACE.

We herewith present to the citizens of Terre Haute our new Directory and Census Report for 1876-7 and trust it will meet with their approbation.

No pains have been spared to make it accurate and reliable. A careful and thorough canvass of the city has been made and every effort used to obtain the names of all persons who should be entered in a city Directory. The exhibit of the mercantile, manufacturing and mining interests, together with the Census Report forms a new and valuable feature of the work.

The canvassing, compiling, printing and publishing, of the Census Report, embracing many square miles of territory, is a difficult and complicated undertaking which every thoughtful person will readily concede. An immense amount of labor has been expended on the work, and every fact and data sifted and arranged with scrupulous care. We do not claim that it is entirely free from errors, for some mistakes will occur in spite of the utmost vigilence, but we are confident that no more thorough and careful canvass of the city has ever been made.

We respectfully acknowledge our obligations to many of the leading business men of the city for their cordial support, encouragement, and liberal patronage, which has justified us in expending so much care and labor on the work. We desire to express our special obligations to Mr. Richard Strout, city engineer, for the draft of the accompanying map, and other valuable assistance.

Hoping that our labor will be appreciated, and our book receive a hearty welcome, we respectfully dedicate it to the public.

CITY OF TERRE HAUTE.

HISTORICAL AND BUSINESS REVIEW.

Manufacturing Advantages—Business and Transportation Facilities—Population, etc.

TERRE HAUTE is situated on the east bank of the Wabash River, on a high level plateau, about fifty feet above low water. Its name is derived from the French terre, land, and haute, high signifying high land. For health, beauty of location, and surroundings, it is all that could be desired. Terre Haute dates its history as a town from the year 1816, when it was laid out by "The Terre Haute Company," consisting of Cuthbert and Thomas Bullitt, Abraham Markle, Hyacinth LaSalle and Jonathan Lindlay, who obtained possession of large tracts of land on the Wabash by patents from the General Government.

The surrounding country was then an almost unbroken wilderness for hundreds of miles in every direction, and no transportation facilities were available other than the keel-boat on the river, propelled by poles, or the slow ox team and wagon, consuming weeks in a trip to the river towns of Lawrenceburg or Louisville. Immigration was slow, and malarial fevers, so prevalent throughout the West in early days, cut down many a hardy pioneer, and greatly retarded the growth of the town.

We may reflect for a moment on the prospect of these hardy pioneers. The fertility of the soil and their own courage and energy were their only resources. No farms were open; no neighbors within many days journey. But with the energy born of necessity, they went to work subduing the soil, making it contribute to their wants. Progress was, however, very slow, and no marked increase in population or development in resources was made until 1818, when Vigo County was organized, and Terre Haute made the County Seat. This event infused new life into the town, and its progress was more rapid thereafter. In the following year the erection of the first court house was begun and completed in 1822.

The coal area in Indiana is about 6,500 square miles, and equal to more than half the coal area of Great Britain, and one-twentieth that of the United States. Taking the coal veins shown to exist by the official geological survey, and leaving out all thin veins, estimating only those of three feet and over in thickness, and within workable depth, and then deducting one-half of what remains for loss and waste, and there is left 1,812,096,000,000 cubic feet of coal. Seventy pounds is the legal weight of a bushel of coal in this state. The average weight of a cubic foot of Indiana coal is about eighty pounds. This would give 2,071,966,757,143 bushels. Estimating it to be worth one cent per bushel in the mine, its value would be $20,719,067,571, a sum sufficient to buy all the real and personal property in the United States at its assessed value in 1870, and then leave enough to pay the national debt three times over; a sum sufficient to build a narrow guage road costing $10,000 per mile, 2,071,966 miles in length, or eighty-three times around the world.

Professor Cox states that the price of coal at Middleborough, the capital of the Cleveland iron district in the North of England, in 1873 was $5.50 per ton. The English ton is 2,240 pounds, equal to thirty-two bushels of our measure, and this would be 17 1/2 cents per bushel Indiana measure, and is double the cost in this city; so that on the question of cheap fuel we can compete with English manufacturers. At 10 cents per bushel in the market the value of the coal of Indiana would be $207,190,675,710, or fourteen and one-half times the assessed value of all the property of the United States in 1870.

The coal, if sold at 10 cents per bushel, would pay the national debt one hundred times; would buy all the real and personal property in Indiana near three hundred times.

The coal in Sullivan County, estimated at one cent per bushel in the mines, is nearly double the assessed value of all the property in the State of Indiana. Were this coal consumed in manufacturing, and a profit of one cent per bushel made, and deposited in the State Treasury, the amount would be $20,719,067,571, equal to one and a half times all the property in the United States in 1870. Mining one hundred bushels per day each, it would employ the entire male population of the State, between twenty-one and forty-five, for one hundred and eighty years, and their wages at three cents per bushel would be $62,159,202,714, or ninety-three times the value of all the property in the State of Indiana.

If loaded on railroad cars of ten tons, or 250 bushels each, 8,287,867,028 cars would be required, and if the cars were each thirty feet long, would make a train near forty-seven millions of miles in length, or 1,880 times around the world; and were the train to run night and day without stopping for a moment, the last car would be two hundred and sixty-eight years arriving at the starting point.

This mode of illustration has been adopted, believing it would more readily bring to the comprehension of those who have not considered the subject, the immensity of our resources.

The civilized, progressive nations are those where manufactures are largely developed. It is the manufacturing nations that become rich and great, and it appears that when raw material and fuel have to be brought together, experience has demonstrated that everything must be brought to the fuel or motive power. Take England, for example. High authority has said "that the commerce of England, until the rise of the trading and maritime power of the United States, had long been without a parallell," and yet she has scarcely any raw material but her coal. Her iron ores are of lean quality, and she imports largely, and yet she has long been supplying herself and much of the world with iron, exporting in 1872 $180,000,000 in value. Without a pound of cotton, in 1875 she imported of the raw material to the value of $266,903,350, herself consumed to the extent of nearly one-half of the import, and then exported and sold abroad to the amount of $400,826,755, making a profit of $133,917,425. Carrying the cotton from the fields of the Southern United States to her coal, and then carrying the manufactured goods back across the ocean to clothe the laborer that raised the cotton, and making enormous profits, importing at the same time food for her laborers, importing in the year 1872 corn and flour alone to the amount of $250,144,180. After buying abroad and retaining for home consumption, she sends abroad to sell manufactured goods to the amount of $1,372,011,470 in a single year, an amount equal to one-third the entire manufactures of the United States. An able writer says: "Great Britain is the most dependent country on the face of the globe. She depends upon foreign nations for the bulk of her food and raw material, and then depends upon foreign countries for a market." Her exports have doubled in the last thirteen years, consisting almost entirely of manufactured articles, everything else being less than one-sixth the whole, and not more than one-third obtained from her own resources. Bigelow, in his work on the tariff question, says: "When we consider that England draws her material strength from her commerce, and that her manufactures almost entirely sustain that commerce, we see at once the ground of her anxiety," etc. The United States consumes about one-fourth of England's exports. For her manufactures the English Parliament have legislated, and her ministers have labored and thought, and her armies have fought. She has supported a large, extravagant, non producing aristocracy, an expensive royalty, a state church, and a large standing army, and has fought many long and costly wars, imported her food and raw material, and yet grown great and rich and powerful; one of the leading nations of the world in every respect, all growing out of her manufactures, and they based upon her coal. Without coal England never would have approached her present power and importance. The American Encyclopedia states: "The aggregate steam-power of Great Britain in 1860 was 38,638,214 horse power, equal to the productive laboring force of 400,000,000 of men, or twice the power of the adult working population of the globe. Nothing more striking or instructive in regard to the value of coal when utilized by our industrial community could be stated than this fact." Producing in 1860, in manufactures alone, in which one tenth of her population were engaged, twenty times the productive force of her entire population, if all were able-bodied adults; and since that time the consumption of coal has increased five-fold, and with improved machinery the productive force, we may well suppose, has increased in even a greater ratio. This dependent nation, with scarcely anything within herself but her coal, producing no gold or cotton, carries raw material from other countries to her coal, which is working for her equal to hundreds of millions of men. We are the greatest cotton and gold producing country in the world, and yet we are unable to maintain a gold circulation, and this great nation is unable to redeem its promises to pay; how to return to specie payments is the great problem of the day, baffling the wisest statesmen. England is drawing gold from us in every ship that sails, and accumulating it in her bank vaults by the ton. We send our gold to England almost to the last dollar to buy that of which we have the raw material in exhaustless abundance, while she has it not at all. We send to her hundreds of millions to buy that which, in a normal condition, we should make cheaper and better, and we should be the seller and her the buyer.

Were we to manufacture for ourselves that which we could to the greatest advantage, we could retain our gold at home, for we see that manufacturing centers gather in the gold of the world, and the vast accumulations show they must be making great gains and profits. Rich in gold-producing we are poor in gold, demonstrating that manufacturing must be more profitable than mining gold, for the manufacturing nation accumulates gold while the mining nation does not. With the most prodigal manufacturing advantages we allow ourselves to be excelled and become tributary to those who have scarcely any. England, without cotton or gold; the United States, the land of gold and cotton - the United States drained of gold to buy cotton from England.

With vast fertile plains, millions of acres uncultivated, capable of feeding the world; our mountains filled with golden ore; our hills with coal and iron; a country capable of producing in exhaustless abundance everything that human heart can wish; yet throughout the land are thousands of willing but idle and suffering people. Surely this is abnormal; this idleness should be turned into a productive industry, so directed as to produce and distribute that which would supply this want and relieve this suffering.

The coal mined in the world in 1871 was 213,650,000 tons. In Great Britain in 1871, 117,000,000; in the United States, 35,000,000 tons, or 30 per cent. more than Great Britain used thirty years ago. At this rate Indiana could supply the world for over three hundred years; supply Great Britain for five hundred years, and the United States for fifteen hundred and twenty-five years. Many of the English coal shafts are over two thousand feet in depth. Massachusetts carries coal, ore, leather, cotton and food long distances, and then carries her wares long distances to market. If each female in the United States were to order one cheap calico dress, it would take all the print mills in Massachusetts a year to fill the order, and $20 000,000 to pay the bill, and yet Massachusetts carries thousands of bales of cotton through this city to her mills, and sends back to Indiana vast quantities of the cloth for sale.

The great manufacturing city of Pittsburg, out of about 200,000 tons of iron ore used in a year, used but about 5,000 tons of Pennsylvania ore, carrying through this city thousands of tons from the Iron Mountains of Missouri, over the superior coal of Indiana, and then sends nails and wrought and cast iron in large quantities to this city for sale.

By the use of fuel, mechanical power is substituted for human labor—the inert mineral for human muscle. Certain "units of work," or "man power," have been adopted by mechanics and engineers.

Supposing a miner to mine four tons per day, then a pound of coal will yield 388 times the manual labor required to mine it; eighteen pounds of coal is equal to the labor of an able-bodied man for eight hours, and two bushels of coal, costing twenty cents in our market, will yield as much motive power as the hard labor of a man for a week. Communities without motive power grow rich as they produce by manual labor, but where fuel exists the fuel will perform hundreds of times the labor required to produce it. Take one acre of Sullivan county coal; at one hundred bushels per day it would take a miner fifteen years, and yet the coal when mined would afford a power equal to the continuous labor of one man for over 5,000 years. The coal in Sullivan county alone is equal to the laboring power of one million of men for 1555 years, and the coal of the State to the labor of 26,000,000 of men for over 1,000 years. What vast forces, what a mighty, willing servant is slumbering in our 6,360 square miles of coal, awaiting the touch of the miner's pick!

The estimated gold production of the world for the past five years is $118,000,000 per year.

The coal mines of Indiana could yield this value at the market at low rates and maintain it for 1,750 years.

The foregoing are mere estimates of value at the mines or the raw coal at the market, while there is yet to be estimated the immense amount of labor to be employed in using it, and the enormous values of manufactured goods produced, of which power the coal is the indispensible base. Imagine the machinery, the tools, the locomotives, the railroad iron, the wares and merchandise which could be produced by the consumption of this vast body of coal, the motive power it would yield, and the labor it would employ, and then we begin to comprehend its immense value and importance. Indeed, it is beyond computation. Edward I and Queen Elizabeth issued proclamations forbidding the use of stone coal in the city of London during the sitting of Parliament, lest the health of the knights of the shire should suffer during their residence in the metropolis; and another, writing in 1840, says:

"It was not many years since the famous city of London petitioned the Parliament of England against two nusances or offensive commodities which were likely to come into great use and esteem, and that was Newcastle coals, in regard of their stench, etc., and hops, in regard they would spoyle the taste of drinck and endanger the people."

This stone which was rejected afterwards became the head of the corner. The earliest employment in England of coal for making iron was in 1713. The historian Macaulay says that prior to 1677 works for the manufacture of iron had long existed in England, "but had not prospered, and had been regarded with no favorable eye by the government and by the public." "It was not then the practice to employ coal for smelting ore, and the rapid consumption of wood excited the alarm of politicians." That as late as 1685 not more than 10,000 tons of iron were cast annually in England, while at the date of his writing, about 1865, 800,000 tons are annually produced; that in 1677 one-half of all the coal raised from the pits was consumed in London, and writers of that date did not expect to be believed when they stated that 350,000 tons were brought to the Thames in 1685, and then goes on to say that in 1865 3,500,000 tons per year are required for the city of London, and that a moderate estimate for the whole kingdom would be 10,000,000 tons. The amount raised in 1870 was 128,080,131, an increase in seven years of 650 per cent. We see then, that England had her days of small beginnings, and her wonderful growth since the use and value of coal began to be comprehended.

In 1650 the people of London petitioned Parliament against the use of coal, and two crowned heads proclaimed against it as a nusance, and prohibited its use, and to-day England's prosperity, her wealth and power, her national importance, indeed her existance, almost, depend upon her coal. In 1500 there were but four persons in the city of London with an income of over $2,000 per annum, and when, in consequence of a treaty in 1665 money was to be remitted to Frankfort and Hamburg, Hume says that the whole trade of England could not supply above $120,000 per month, or equal to $1,500,000 per year.—or not more than the revenues from taxation of Indianapolis and Marion County for one year.

A later writer, Mr. McCulloch, in "Statistics of the British Empire," as far back as 1848, says: "It is hardly possible to exaggerate the advantages England derives from her vast beds of coal. Our coal mines are the principal sources and foundation of our manufacturing and commercial prosperity. Since the invention of the steam engine coal has become of the highest importance as a moving power, and no nation, however favorably situated in other respects, not plentifully supplied with this mineral, need hope to rival those that are, in most branches of industry. Our coal mines have conferred a thousand fold more real advantage on us than we have derived from the conquest of the Mogul Empire, or than we could have reaped from the dominion of Mexico and Peru. They have supplied our manufacturers and artisans with a power of unbounded energy and easy control, and they have enabled them to overcome difficulties insurmountable by those to whom nature has been less liberal of her choicest gifts."

Tacitus, writing more than sixteen hundred years ago, says that in the year A. D. 61 London was "a city very much frequented by an abundance of merchants and ships that enter its ports."

In 1141 London was a city of 40,000. When over 1,000 years old it was less than half as large as Indianapolis. In 1841 it was 1,652,902, showing an average increase of about 2,000 per annum for seven hundred years. In 1801 the population was 958,800; from 1801 to 1811 the increase was about 18,000 per year; 1811 to 1821, 24,000; 1821 to 1831, 27,000; 1831 to 1841, 20,300; 1841 to 1851, 11,381; 1851 to 1861, 121,585 per year. The increase in the ten years from 1851 to 1861 was equal to more than 50 per cent. of its entire previous growth, and was 256,990 more than the entire growth from the year 61 to the year 1801, a period of 1,740 years, and the increase in architecture and improvements and wealth was in still greater proportion—all this enormous growth based upon her commerce—that commerce the outgrowth of her manufactures, and that manufactures based upon her coal; take that away and the grand fabric would never have arisen. From 1801 to 1871 the increase was 146,000 per year, or nearly half as much as in the previous 1,800 years. London used 4,000,000 tons of coal in the first seven months of 1874.

Philadelphia is the second largest manufacturing city in the world, and the largest in the United States. * * In 1850 the amount of her manufactures was $61,114,112, and her population 408,702. In 1870 her manufactures amounted to $512,004,517, and her population to 670,002, and had nearly twice as many dwellings as New York.

The great cities of St. Louis, Chicago, Cincinnati, and Cleveland owe their wonderful growth and prosperity to their manufactures, and this all the time in exact proportion to the increased use of coal. In 1860 the value of manufactured products in Cincinnati was $50,003,662; in 1870, $143,180,075—an increase of over 200 per cent. in ten years.

* * * *

In 1685 the historian did not expect to be believed when saying that 350,000 tons of coal were consumed in London; in 1874, 3066,980 tons were consumed in this city. Population in the United States in the last hundred years has increased 164 fold, and manufactories have increased 210 fold. Manufacturing has increased thirteen times as fast as population. Indianapolis manufactured in 1874 $12,000,000 more in value than were manufactured in the whole United States in the year 1776. * * * * * *

In Indiana there was in 1870 8,015,360 acres of unimproved land, sufficient to support 6,000,000 of people.

All New England raises but little more than one peck of wheat to the inhabitant. The estimated amount required for each individual is 5¾ bushels. The State of New York buys millions of bushels every year for her own consumption from the West. Maryland and Delaware only supply themselves. Pennsylvania sometimes has a little to sell.

In 1870 Indiana produced fourteen bushels to each inhabitant, enough to feed her own people and 16,500,000 bushels to sell.

If Old and New England States can carry their raw material and fuel and food long distances, and then carry their manufactures long distances to market, Indiana, with far greater advantages, with inexhaustible stores of raw material, and fuel under our feet, and vast supplies of food to sell, with a market all around, and easy transportation in every direction, ought to be able not only to compete but to excel: and I feel safe in saying that in a few years we will, and we will look back and wonder how we were blinded so long to our advantages, and permitted ourselves so long to be drained of our means to build up distant States, and buy from them to the extent of millions that which we could produce cheaper and better at home.

* * * * * * * * * * * *

The great sources of national wealth are agriculture, commerce and manufactures. The prime condition for the last is a cheap supply of raw material, ready access to market, and cheap and easy means of transportation. Terre Haute has what is seldom found, a combination of all these.

Manufactures have generally fallen off everywhere, and in many places never to resume. Consumption has been going on, and will; human wants are as many and as great as they ever have been. The law of imperative demand exists, and hence the law of supply must exist. Panics always develop manufacturing centers, and the reason is plain why they should. When manufacturing rallies again, capital and enterprise, with keenly and freshly sharpened experience, will seek central, prosperous points, and local advantages will be critically weighed and measured, and will determine the question of new location; and, hence, now is the time to demonstrate that we possess these local advantages.

The great reduction in prices will no doubt continue, but as they will adjust their relation, and at home among ourselves less wages will buy as much as higher wages formerly would, for we buy for less as well as sell for less, while the reduction will enable us to compete with the foreign manufacturer as we never have done. Lower prices is a protective, and in many cases, a prohibitary, tariff, and the victorious contestant of the foreign rival, and the result will be a building up of home manufactures -more home labor, less importation and less foreign debt.

Our Indiana coal is very superior for the manufacture of Bessemer steel, having no equal, and the last few years has developed a wonderful growth in the manufacture of this steel, and in a short time steel railroad bars will alone be used. Our coals are the Titanes thrust out of sight into a cavern of the earth, yet "producing" the "substance of honey steel." * * * * * * *

Beneath the fertile soil are inexhaustible mines of coal and other wealth-producing mineral, and the rest is with ourselves. What could we ask of Heaven that has not been given us? The magic touch of capital, enterprise and energy will start the miners pick, the engine, the loom, and the forge, and make the wilderness to blossom as the rose. To the determined will, nothing that is desirable is impossible. Let us not lie still, but up and put our shoulder to the wheel; not wait for the slow coming of events, but boldly create, order, direct and compel them, and in a few years our city will be girt about with a cordon of industries like the pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night, telling us the angel of prosperity is going before us and leading us on.

As showing the more immediate relation of Terre Haute to the coal and iron interests of the state, we quote the following from the pen of Col. R. W. Thompson:

"Terre Haute is situated in the heart of the Wabash Valley, a section of country not surpassed in fertility by any in the west, or in the world. The district depending on it for its local trade is occupied by a most energetic and enterprising population, rapidly increasing in wealth. No portion of the United States, of the same extent, furnishes a greater annual average of agricultural products. The local demand, therefore, for every kind of manufactures is constantly and rapidly increasing.

The discovery, within the last few years, of the extensive and rich coal fields of Indiana have directed public attention and attracted capital, to the western part of the State and has given an extraordinary impulse to business in the region of country immediately surrounding Terre Haute. These coal fields embrace a large portion of Southern Indiana, but the most valuable of them thus far discovered, are found much nearer Terre Haute than any other commercial point. The greater part of the coal is bituminous, and it abounds in every direction around and in the vicinity of Terre Haute. But large quantities of very superior [illegible] have been found in Clay, Green and Parke Counties. At Brazil fifteen miles east of Terre Haute this block or splint coal is used, most successfully, in the five blast furnaces lately erected, and now in successful operation in that town and vicinity. It is now easy of transportation to Terre Haute by the Terre Haute and Indianapolis Railroad and its switches, and by the Evansville and Crawfordsville Railroad. Recent observations have very satisfactorily demonstrated that this block or splint coal field approaches still nearer to Terre Haute, and it is believed that it will be found to reach its immediate neighborhood. Very superior bituminous coal is now mined within two miles of the city, and is found on both sides of the Wabash river. In these coal facilities it has greatly the advantage of any other commercial point in Indiana or Illinois, and cannot be surpassed by any point in the United States, as will appear when its geographical relations with other sections of the country are considered.

Carboniferous, red and brown hematite iron ores are found in large quantities in the immediate vicinity of these beds of coal, in the only supply themselves. Pennsylvania sometimes has a little to sell.

In these coal facilities it has greatly the advantage of any other commercial point in Indiana or Illinois, and cannot be surpassed by any point in the United States, as will appear when its geographical relations with other sections of the country are considered.

Carboniferous, red and brown hematite iron ores are found in large quantities in the immediate vicinity of these beds of coal, in the counties of Green, Clay and Parke, on the east side of the Wabash river, and in Vermillion County, on the west side, and near the line of the Terre Haute and Danville Railroad, beginning within twelve miles of Terre Haute, where a blast furnace was in operation a few years ago, which manufactured a superior article of pig-iron. The carboniferous iron ores predominate. Magnetic iron ores are also found in considerable quantities, but not so extensively as the carboniferous and the hematites. These ores mix, as all iron manufacturers understand, most advantageously and profitably with the specular and magnetic ores of Lake Superior, and the Iron mountain and Pilot Knob of Missouri. Such admixture is absolutely necessary to the manufacture of the best quality of iron, and, therefore, the point at which they can be most readily brought together is most desirable for the location of blast furnaces and rolling mills. No point in the United States has advantages superior to those of Terre Haute in this respect.

The area of the coal deposits in the United States is something over 200,000 square miles. About one-twentieth of this area is in Indiana. Terre Haute being near the center, from north to south. The area in Tennessee is about 3,700 square miles; in Georgia about 180 square miles; and in Alabama about 1,300 square miles. That in Indiana, therefore, exceeds the aggregate area in these three States. The coal measures in Tennessee are confined mostly to the regions of the Cumberland Mountains, and are comparatively inaccessible, except in the vicinity of Chattanooga, where hematite ore is also found. Those of Alabama are most valuable in the neighborhood of Lookout and Sand mountains, but eastwardly they are subject to great depression, and westwardly to thinning out. The annual product of all these coal fields in Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama is less than one-half of that in Indiana. Independently, however, of the large excess of quantity in the annual product of coal, there are several important considerations which tend to show that the advantages are greatly in favor of Terre Haute, as a point for the manufacture of iron, over any that can exist either in Tennessee, Georgia or Alabama. The abundant supply of block or splint coal, free from sulphur, with which Terre Haute is supplied, will save the expense of coking or charring, which cannot be avoided in either of those states. And as the best iron is only made by an admixture of the specular or magnetic and carboniferous and hematite ores, it can, necessarily, be manufactured much more cheaply at Terre Haute than at any point south of it; because the specular and magnetic ores of Lake Superior and Missouri cannot reach the hematite iron regions of Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama, except upon long lines of railroad transportation, and at heavy additional expense. Hence the Southern States must, of necessity, depend mainly upon Terre Haute and its vicinity for their supply of iron and iron manufactures, so soon as the railroad from Henderson to Nashville is finished, Terre Haute being nearer to them and in more direct railroad communication with them, than any other point in the United States situated within a coal and iron region. This trade will involve an exchange of the cotton of the south for the iron of the north, and iron manufactures of Indiana, and thus establish an intercourse between those sections greatly to the benefit of both. Another consequence must also follow: the abundant supply of water at Terre Haute will greatly facilitate the manufacture of cotton, and the interchange of productions will invite it to an extent sufficient to furnish a supply of cotton goods to Indiana and Illinois, and also to a large portion of the south, at a saving in the cost of transportation of the raw material to, and the manufactured fabrics from, the Eastern States. These facts go to show that, whether for iron or cotton manufactures, there is no point west of the Allegany Mountains which combines so many advantages as Terre Haute, especially for the manufacture of iron. Its central position between the large cities of the west, gives it facilities which no other commercial point can have. In the following most important particulars these facilities are unequalled.

1. The presence of large and inexhaustible quantities of block or splint, and bituminous coals.

2. The presence of rich hematite iron ore in great abundance; with a more limited supply of magnetic iron ore.

3. The presence of a plentiful supply of carboniferous limestone, for fluxing.

4. The directness of communication with the specular and magnetic iron regions of Lake Superior and Missouri.

5. The directness of communication with the four leading Western cities and with all other commercial points in the Northwest and South.

Terre Haute is, in fact, the only commercial point in the Northwest combining all these advantages, in so high a degree. And the most enterprising and intelligent iron manufacturers have not been slow to discover this fact.

The progress of material improvement is more accurately estimated by the increase of the mechanical arts which are its principal agents. In the United States this progress has been so rapid within the last twenty years, as to surprise the whole commercial world; and by taking the last decade, ending in 1860, as the basis of computation, it will appear that it has been far greater in the West than in any other section of the Union. This result will be reached by an estimate of the value of agricultural implements produced; for as agriculture is the basis of all prosperity, it furnishes the most, if not the only, rule of calculation. The increase of value of agricultural implements produced in the New England States, from 1850 to 1860, was 65.8 per cent.; in the Middle States 122.2 per cent.; while in the Western States it was 341.7 per cent. And extending this calculation to the end of the present decade, in 1870, it will be found that this per centage of increase in favor of the West is kept up, if not exceeded. This will show that, although the largest capital is employed in iron manufactories in the Middle States, and the value of their products there are greater than in any other section, this cannot much longer continue. It is a well settled rule, that the nearer the producer and the consumer are brought together, the larger is the profit to each, because, by shortening transportation, capital becomes more active. Hence, it must soon occur, under the controlling influence of the laws of trade, that the necessary amount of capital to produce the agricultural implements demanded by the West, must be drawn to such points of the West as furnish the greatest facilities for transportation and the materials for manufacture. There is no point within any known coal and iron region, situated so near the commercial centre of these States; none other so connected with them by railroads, as Terre Haute. A circle with Terre Haute as its centre, and Pittsburg upon the line of its circumference, will embrace within it from three-fourths to four-fifths of the population of these States. Considered, therefore, geographically, and with reference to the facilities for manufacturing iron, and of transportation, Terre Haute stands without a rival. It will only require a glance at its position upon the map —in the centre of one of the finest agricultural districts in the world—to show its importance as a point for the manufacture also of agricultural implements, the demand for which is so rapidly and steadily increasing.

The importance of block or splint coal in the manufacture of iron is well understood amongst iron men. A single fact will show this, as it will also show the importance of that which is found in the neighborhood of Terre Haute. There has been recently discovered on the Big Muddy river, in Missouri, about ten miles south of St. Louis, a bituminous coal bearing a striking resemblance to the block; yet it has been so satisfactorily demonstrated that it is not fairly suited for the manufacture of iron, that contracts have already been made for the transportation to the Missouri furnaces of large quantities of block coal from the neighborhood of Terre Haute, to be combined with the Big Muddy coal, in the proportion of three-fourths of the block to one-fourth of the latter. In the absence of the block the Big Muddy coal has to be used with coke brought from Pittsburg, in the proportion of three-fifths of the former with two-fifths of the latter.

But one other point is necessary to be considered: that is the cost of manufacturing iron at Terre Haute, compared with other places in the West and South. The truth of the statement already made, that the best iron is made by an admixture of the hematite with the specular and magnetic ores, has been demonstrated at many furnaces. At the furnaces on the Hudson river in New York from two-thirds to three-fourths of hematites are combined with from one-half to one-fourth of the magnetic or specular ores. About the same proportion of each is used in Berks county, Pennsylvania; on the Chesapeake Bay near Baltimore; at Pittsburg; and Johnston; and at Youngstown, in Ohio. With an inexhaustible supply of limestone for flux in the vicinity of their furnaces, and with hematite ores which can be procured at small cost, the manufacturers of Pittsburg are compelled to transport their specular and magnetic ores from Lake Superior, in order to furnish the best quality of iron. The transportation is about a thousand miles, by water and railroad, and the expense is such that the cost of a ton of pig-iron at Pittsburg, made out of these mixed ores is about $29.50. This cost, there as elsewhere, is made up as follows: 1. Expense of ore. 2. Fuel. 3. Flux. 4 Labor at furnace. 5. Interest on capital. 6. Repairs. 7. Superintendence. But ore, fuel and labor are the chief items, and as the cost of the two first depend greatly upon transportation, which varies according to location and convenience of supply, Terre Haute has these advantages over Pittsburg: first in the abundance of block or splint coal; second, in the transportation of specular and magnetic ores from Lake Superior and Missouri: Chicago is now connected by railroad with Fort Howard, at the head of Green Bay, a distance of two hundred and forty-five miles, and when the railroads from that point to Marquette, and to Ontonagon on Lake Superior, are completed, Terre Haute will be, by the Terre Haute and Danville Railroads, within about five hundred miles of the iron mines of Michigan and those of Wisconsin. Thus the transportation of these ores will be five hundred miles less to Terre Haute than they now are to Pittsburg; and if the ores destined for Pittsburg shall also be brought to Chicago by railroad, then the difference in transportation will be two hundred and eighty-nine miles in favor of Terre Haute.

Pig iron is manufactured exclusively out of the native ores of the Lake Superior region, in the neighborhood of Marquette, in Michigan, but at a cost of $35.00 per ton. But the manufacture is not likely to continue for many years longer, in consequence of the absence of coal and the disappearance of the timber out of which the furnaces there have been, thus far, supplied with charcoal. This country, therefore must become almost entirely exporting; furnishing specular and magnetic ores to different parts of the West.

These advantages, in the distance of transportation, are of incalculable value, and must enter, very materially, into a calculation of the cost of manufacturing iron, greatly in favor of Terre Haute over Pittsburg. But the former has another advantage over the latter, in its abundant supply of block or splint coal, which will save the expense of coking or charring the bituminous coal of Pittsburg, and by which the best iron can be made without the presence of phosphorus. Other things, that is the cost of fluxing and of labor, the interest on capital, repairs, and superintendence, being the same at both places, the saving in transportation and in fuel, will enable a ton of iron to be manufactured at Terre Haute for $10.00, or $3.50 less than at Pittsburg. The same may be said of the manufacture of iron at Carondelet, Missouri, where it costs about $28.50 per ton, or $1.00 less than at Pittsburg, and $2.50 more than at Terre Haute. And as these points compare more favorably with Terre Haute than any other point in the West, Terre Haute can have no Western rival in these respects.

Nor can it be possible that iron can be manufactured anywhere in the coal fields of Tennessee, Georgia, or Alabama, as cheaply as at Terre Haute, even though there may be found in those sections an equally abundant supply of limestone and hematite iron ores. The same advantages over Chattanooga exist in favor of Terre Haute, in the possesson of block or splint coal, and in the transportation of specular and magnetic iron ores, the transportation from the Iron mountain and Pilot Knob, in Missouri, being more than double what it is to Terre Haute. All other things being equal, as in the case of Pittsburg and Terre Haute, it is not believed that the best iron can be manufactured at Chattanooga for less than $20.50 per ton, the same cost as at Pittsburg, and $3 50 more than at Terre Haute.

In this connection it should be observed that, although there are red and brown hematite iron ores found in that portion of Tennessee which lies west of Nashville, there is no coal with which to manufacture it in any of the sections where it is found. The coal fields of the West are peculiar in this, that from Pittsburg to the mouth of the Ohio river, the only coal suitable for manufacturing iron is found at Zanesville, Ohio, which can not be used without coking. Commencing some forty or fifty miles above the mouth of the Tennessee and Cumberland rivers, no coal is found on or near these streams; and the iron ore in that region cannot be manufactured without coal from Chattanooga, which also has to be coked.

It may be confidently asserted, therefore, in view of all the foregoing facts, that there is no point in the United States which combine so many and such decided advantages as Terre Haute, for the manufacture of iron. Capital can, no where else, be more safely and profitably invested. Such investment is invited, not only by its present prosperity, but by the certain promise of a brilliant future.

"Here then is the point, of all others in the West, which possesses special attractions for the investment of capital and labor. It is in the possession of vast undeveloped resources, and only requires the quickening touch of industry and action to rear into existence successful enterprises which will yield wealth and comfort to the people and vastly increase the business and population of the city. A writer has aptly said: "Capital is powerless as a source of wealth without it gives employment to productive labor, and labor is never productive for purposes of wealth, unless there is a demand for that which labor produces. It follows, therefore, that capital and labor are reciprocally dependent, and although it may be true that 'capital controls labor,' it is no less true that capital is powerless unless utilized by labor. This being true, capital cannot profitably control labor by seeking investments in those localities, and under circumstances not favorable to the support of labor. Cost of living and the use to which the small earnings of labor must be put, have so great a bearing upon the cost of labor that I hazard but little in saying that labor controls capital. He is not a wise man who invests capital for manufacturing purposes, without giving due consideration to the cost of living and ability of the laborer to secure for himself a home which shall from year to year give him returns in productions and increased value."

Within easy reach of Terre Haute, through its superior transportation facilities, the demand for that which labor produces in the way of manufacturing is amply sufficient. Cost of living here, in the midst of Agricultural productions is cheap. Opportunities for securing cheap homes are abundant, and every man with steady employment, who is industrious and saving, can so provide himself, even if he has little or no capital to begin with. Here then is presented, to capital seeking investment, or labor seeking employment, the strongest inducement to locate at Terre Haute.

Already her manufacturing interests have assumed vast proportions, as is evidenced by the fact that there are now in successful operation nearly one hundred manufacturing establishments, giving employment to over two thousand operatatives, and turning out five million dollars worth of goods annually.

Her commercial interests are represented by over one hundred houses doing an annual business of over seven millions, yet there is room for more, and more are needed.

It is certainly to the interest of every citizen of Terre Haute to lend every energy and effort to encourage the establishment of, and support the manufactories, as well as it is to the interest of those seeking to invest their capital in such enterprises, to locate here. To all seeking a location for the investment of capital no better point can be found than Terre Haute, and to the people of Terre Haute, we would say, Let there be united and continued efforts, then, to encourage manufactories. It needs some concerted action to produce the required result, and whenever the opportunity presents itself let such action in concert be made. Large cities cannot be built upon mercantile and transportation interests and facilities alone. Manufactories will benefit every class of citizens, therefore every class ought to help add its own effort to bring them into our midst. It should be distinctly borne in mind that the benefits of the introduction of large manufacturing interests into the city does not inure to any few citizens alone, but to all. It gives profit to invested, active capital, employment to labor, renewed impetus to commerce, mercantile and agricultural interests; gives articles of comfort, convenience and refinement, extols and exalts civilization, and gives the greatest distinguishing features between simple barbarism and highly cultured civilization.

Therefore give every inducement; lend every encouragement possible, to all who manifest any disposition to come among you.

THE POPULATION.

In presenting to the public the statistics of population, we do so with the assurance that they are complete and acurate. We have exercised the utmost possible care in compiling them, to make them reliable. While the result may not reach the expectations of some, yet when all the facts are taken into consideration, they show a healthy increase of population, and one that but few towns or cities can boast of. Notwithstanding the rate of increase for the past six years has not been as great, proportionately, as the two previous decades, yet when we consider carefully the history of the past three years, the general stagnation of business, the disastrous effects of the panic on manufacturing interests and all mechanic arts, and the consequent dispersion of thousands of operatives and mechanics from our cities and towns to the agricultural regions and the Western territories, it is not a matter of surprise or discouragement, but on the contrary a gratifying exhibit of the healthy growth and prosperity of the city—a matter in which every citizen has a commendable pride:

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES OF TERRE HAUTE.

The railroad system of Terre Haute is surpassed by but few cities in the West. The first railroad—the Terre Haute and Indianapolis—was completed in 1853, since which new ones have been added until Terre Haute is now the center of eight completed railroads radiating to almost every point of the compass.

With such a network of railroads bringing the products of the soil and the mine from every point within reach, and sending out in exchange articles of comfort, utility and luxury, the rapid increase of commercial, manufacturing and industrial interests, permanent and continued prosperity is assured.

The following is the list of completed railroads here:

The Terre Haute and Indianapolis.
The St. Louis, Vandalia and Terre Haute.
Indianapolis and St. Louis.
The Evansville and Crawfordsville.
The Evansville, Terre Haute and Chicago.
The Logansport, Crawfordsville and Southwestern.
The Illinois Midland.
The Cincinnati and Terre Haute.

In addition to these, several new roads are projected or in process of construction. With these bountiful transportation facilities and the abundant resources within her reach, Terre Haute is bound to grow rapidly into commercial and manufacturing importance.

THE EVANSVILLE, TERRE HAUTE AND CHICAGO RAILROAD COMPANY

Was organized under the general laws June 2, 1869, to construct a road from Terre Haute to Danville, Illinois, a distance of 55 miles. It was completed to Newport, Vermillion County, early in 1871, and to Danville in May 1872, with its northern connection, the Chicago and Danville line to Chicago, the whole length of the line to Chicago being 184 miles.

This road is one of considerable importance to the City of Terre Haute. It brings a large local trade from Vermillion and other counties northward, and provides an outlet for the coal and other products of this vacinity to Chicago and the Northwest.

The coal fields at Clinton on the line of this road are extensive and important. The general offices and shops are located at Terre Haute.

LOGANSPORT, CRAWFORDSVILLE & SOUTHWESTERN RAILWAY. "LOGANSPORT & TERRE HAUTE SHORT LINE."

J. G. Claybrook, }
S. D. Schuyler, } Receivers.
W. G. Brimson, Supt., Logansport, Indiana.
J. E. Harris, G. F. & T. A.
W. H. Truesdale, Treasurer.
W. D. Ernst, Auditor.
General Office, 10 North Sixth.

This road was opened for business in August, 1872, having for its terminals Terre Haute and Logansport. The advantages afforded by the geographical position of the line makes it the shortest and most accessible route from Terre Haute (and points south) to Lafayette, Michigan City, Kokomo, Peru, Fort Wayne, Jackson, Saginaw, Toledo, Detroit, Sandusky, Put-in-Bay, etc., including all points in northern Indiana and Michigan. Close connections are made at Crawfordsville with L. B. & W., trains for Indianapolis, Covington and Danville, with L. N. A. & C. R. R. for Lafayette, Michigan City and Greencastle.

At Colfax with I. C. & L. R. R., for points east and west. At Frankfort with F. & K. R. R. for Kokomo and with L. M. & B. R. R. for points east and west. At Logansport with T. W. & W., P. C. & St. L. and D. E. R. & I. R. R.s. for ponts north, east and west. Agricultural, mineral and forest products forms the chief traffic originating on the line of this road, prominent among which is the famous "Sand Creek Coal," pronounced by the State geologist (Prof. Cox,) to be the best bituminous coal mined in Indiana. Mines located three miles north of Rockville. This coal is distributed over a large scope of territory, reaching into Northern Indiana and Michigan. It is interchanged for pine lumber from Saginaw, Bay City, Grand Rapids, etc. This, with the many advantages, too numerous to mention in this brief paragraph, warrants us in saying that the "Logansport & Terre Haute Short Line," is bound to be one of the best north and south lines enlisted in American railways. Length of road 116 miles.

BUSINESS MEN OF TERRE HAUTE.

A Brief Historical Sketch and Review of Some of the Leading Commercial and Manufacturing Establishments.

HOBERG, ROOT & CO., Dealers in Dry Goods, Notions, etc.

It is the trade that builds up a city, and as the city grows the trade increases. The dry goods trade of Terre Haute has grown entirely out of the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

The dry goods house now conducted in the firm name of Hoberg, Root & Co. was first established in 1850, by Rice Edsall & Co. Mr. Rice, the head of the firm, died in 1857, and the firm name was then changed to Edsall, McDougall & Co. In 1860 the house started a branch in Fort Wayne, under the supervision of L. H. Root. In a short time Mr. McDougall retired from the firm and went to Fort Wayne, and Mr. Root returned and became a partner in the home house, the firm being changed to that of Edsall, Root & Co. In less than a year, however, Mr. Root retired, and the firm name was changed to Edsall & Co.

In June, 1863, Mr. A. J. Edsall, the leading man of the house, died. The business was continued in the name of Edsall & Co. by a new partnership composed of George W. Knowlton of New York, Chauncey Warren and C. C. Oakey of Terre Haute. In 1867, Max Hoberg, for a long time the cashier of the house, was admitted to partnership, but the firm name was continued as before, until February, 1869, when Mr. Oakey withdrew and the firm was changed to that of Warren, Hoberg & Co. In 1872 the extensive establishment was moved from the southwest corner of Main and Fourth streets, where the firm had done bussness so long, to the new and magnificent Opera house building, which had just arisen from the ashes of the old Spinning Wheel Corner. Here the attractions of a new and splendid house, built in modern style, were added to those of a vast and rapidly increasing dry goods business. The change had not long been made, however, when Mr. L. B. Root returned from Fort Wayne and purchased the interest of Mr. Knowlton. The retiring of Mr. Warren in 1872 left the entire business in the hands of Messrs. Hoberg and Root, and the firm name was changed to Hoberg, Root & Co. The present establishment is under the direct supervision of Mr. Max Hoberg, a gentleman who is well known in this city for sterling integrity and popularity as a business man. Mr. Root has his headquarters in New York, where he is always ready to make advantageous purchases for the Western house, and hence the stock of this firm embraces the newest and most desirable goods.

The dry goods store is in one of the finest buildings in the West. It occupies a most convenient and desirable position on Main street, and commands the center of trade. The main store room is a magnificent one. In front are large and tasty awnings. It has four large plate glass show windows, within which are displayed great quantities of goods in the best taste and harmony, making a great attraction.

MAGWIRE & YEAKLE, House and Sign Painters,

The above named firm is located at No. 12 South Eighth Street, and do an extensive business in their line. They are skillful and competent artizans, and never fail to give entire satisfaction. They make a specialty in fancy lettering sign painting, and graining, and can execute anything asked for in that line in the highest style of the art.

W. H. PAIGE & CO., Dealers in Pianos, Organs, Sheet Music and Musical Merchandise,

Messrs. Paige & Co. at 607 Main street, preside over one of the finest music stores in the West. Here may be found every description of musical instrument from the Jew's-harp up to the world-renowned Chickering Piano, and the largest and best stock of sheet music to be found in the city. They also deal largely in the celebrated Mason & Hamlin and Este Organs for church and parlor use. Mr. Paige is well versed in his business, having had many years experience in Cincinnati before coming to this city. From a small beginning in 1871 his business has grown to a trade of immense proportions.

To further the interests of musical education these gentlemen have established a conservatory of music on the plan of similar institutions in the East, and which have been found so useful in elevating the tone of musical education and developing musical talent. Here one can enjoy the benefit of accomplished and experienced teachers on any instrument they may select, or in vocal music with the advantage of companionship in their studies, thus awakening a true musical feeling and spirit of emulation in their studies. The course of instruction embraces System of Notation, Harmony, Composition, Instrumentation, Vocalization, Practice in Chorus Singing, Piano Forte, Organ, Violin, Guitar, and all Orchestral Instruments. Judging from their past success we bespeak for these gentlemen a prosperous business future.

JAMES PAXTON, Dealer in Books Stationery, etc.,

At 607 Main street, may be found one of the largest and finest establishments of its kind in the city. The store is under the immediate charge of Mr. James M. Naylor, a gentleman of large experience in the business. His thorough knowledge of the business and strict attention to the wants of his customers has built up a large trade. Everything in his line of the newest and best, as well as the latest publications, can always be found on his shelves; also pictures, picture-frames, brackets, stereoscopic glasses, and views, and every description of stationery. We advise all in want of anything in his line to give him a call.

(See index to advertisers.)

SIMEON CORY, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Iron, Steel, Nails, Glass, &c.

The hardware trade of Terre Haute is very large, and forms an important part of its large and growing jobbing trade Among the leading houses in this line is that of Simeon Cory, at 429 Main, and 9 South 5th street. This house is the pioneer in its line, its establishment reaching back to the days of log cabins and corduroy roads, thirty-five years ago, by S. H. Potter & Co. Mr. Cory purchased the establishment in 1865, and being a genial, straight-forward business man, possessed of a thorough knowledge of the hardware trade, has met with marked success in his business. His trade extends throughout Western Indiana and Eastern and Central Illinois, and has a wide and well merited reputation. He carries a full and complete stock in his line and transacts an annual business of from $130,000 to $150,000.

(See Index to Advertisers.)

DANIEL MILLER, Grocer,

At 307 and 309, North Fourth street, may be found one of Terre Haute's energetic men. Mr. Miller came to this city in 1857, and opened up a small grocery at his present location, Without capital or acquaintance, but with a thorough knowledge of his business in all its details, and an energetic and enterprising nature, he sat to work, far removed from the center of business, to built up a trade. Seventeen years have passed away, and as we look at his business to-day we are astonished. For several years his business has reached the extraordinary sum of $150,000 per annum. Nothing but the utmost energy, skill and integrity could have accomplished such vast results with so inadequate means, in so short a time. Besides managing several stores, he is also agent for the celebrated Studebaker wagon, selling a large number annually. One element of his success has been to buy in large quantities at jobbing rates, and sell for small profits, thus saving to his customers a large profit to middle men, Mr. Miller is a man of the strictest integrity, and no one stands higher in the commercial world.

ROSEMAN & BORSSUM, Merchant Tailors, 233 South Sixth.

Among the merchant tailoring establishments of Terre Haute none enjoy a higher reputation for artistic and perfect work than the one over which Messrs. Roseman & Borssum preside. They were both educated to their business from boyhood up, and gained a thorough practical knowledge of it in the larger European cities before coming to this country. In 1868 they opened up in this city and by strict attention to business and a desire to please have built up a business ranging from $12,000 to $15,000 per annum. They give constant employment to eight skilled workmen and keep on hand a full line of the finest imported and domestic goods for gentlemen's wear. Those in want of anything in their line may always be certain of getting the latest style and most perfect fit at their establishment.

(See Index to Advertisers.)

G. FOSTER SMITH, Dealer in Stoves and Tinware, and Manufacturer of Copper and Sheet Iron Ware.

Here is another of the old solid establishments of the city. It is located at 514 Main street, and occupies a three story building, 18x140 feet, and was established in 1842, when Terre Haute was but a country village. His tinshop is extensive and the special attention of retailers is called to this branch of his business as he does a wholesale business in this regard. He keeps an extensive stock of tinware and other articles which go to make a complete outfit for a kitchen. His stoves come from the best manufacturers in the country and for variety and style of finish are not surpassed by any stove in the market. Mr. Smith gives special attention to the manufacture of Copper, Sheet Iron and Tinware in all its multifarious forms, especially for spouting and roofing He employs none but skilled workmen who thoroughly understand their business, and all orders entrusted to him will be promptly and satisfactorily filled. Always aiming to manufacture or deal in nothing but the best articles, he has built up an extensive trade in city and country. Parties in this city or in any part of the State wanting anything in the line herein enumerated should not fail to give Mr. Smith a call before purchasing elsewhere. He is also agent for the world renowned Fairbanks scales

CLIFT & WILLIAMS, Planing Mill and Manufacturers of Sash, Doors and Blinds.

This large establishment is located at 129 North Ninth street, occupying two large two-story buildings, one 75 by 85 feet, the other 20 by 70 feet, and 100 feet of lumber sheds. Mr. W. S. Clift established the business in 1869, Mr. Williams coming in in March, 1875. This enterprising firm has taken advantage of all the latest improvements in wood-working machinery, and turn out nothing but first-class work. Their work is all manufactured from well seasoned lumber of the best varieties, and always gives entire satisfaction. From small beginnings their business has grown to its present magnitude, employing 40 skilled workmen, and turning out from $75,000 to $100,000 worth of work per annum. The proprietors are thoroughly conversant with their business, from the minutest details up, and this, coupled with energy, industry and square dealing, has worked out for them its legitimate reward. We advise all those who desire anything in their line to give them a call.

DAVID S. DANALDSON, United States Military Claim Agent,

228½ Main street. Mr. Danaldson is the oldest military claim agent in the State, having been engaged in the business since 1847. He is therefore thoroughly posted in every branch of the business. No valid claim passes through his hands unpaid, and no better agent or attorney can be found in Western Indiana. He has been remarkably successful with all claims entrusted to his care.

CLIFF & SON, Boiler Manufacturers

The above establishment forms a very important part of Terre Haute's manufacturing enterprises. It was established by its present energetic proprietors but ten years ago, and already ranks among the largest in the State The works are located on South First street, between Walnut and Poplar, giving employment to 35 men and turning out from $35,000 to $50,000 worth of work annually

The proprietors are practically skilled and proficient in their business, and give personal supervision to everything turned out of their establishment, and thus give entire satisfaction to their customers.

WHARTON, RIDDLE & CO., General Agency. Insurance, Loans and Real Estate, Terre Haute, Indiana.

This live and energetic firm coasists of William Berry Wharton and J. Irving Riddle, both of large experience in their profession. They represent a large list of the leading American and Foreign Companes.

The following are some of the companies found on their list:

The New York Underwriter Agency, $3,500,000; Phœnix Ins., Co., New York, $3,000,000; Phœnix Ins. Co., Conn., $2,500,000; German American Ins. Co., New York, $2,2500,000; Imperial and Northern of London, $40,550,000; Commercial Union of London, $18,500,000; Northwestern Mutual Life of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, $20,000,000; Travelers' Ins. Co., Hartford, $1,000,000; other companies, $8,000,000; total capital represented, $102,300,000

Messrs. Wharton, Riddle & Co. are the pioneer Accident Insurance Agents in this part of the country, having $1,000,000 accident Insurance on their books for this vicinity. It proving to be the more in demand and hence the most popular insurance of the age. Its exceeding cheapness makes it necessary to all, the ordinary cost being $5 per thousand for death and indemnity both, per annum.

This firm, so aggressive and persistent, have not only become one of the leading Insurance, Loan and Real Estate Agencies of this city, but they are also State agents for some of their companies. With clear discrimination and good judgment, together with the strictest integrity and habits of persistent industry they can with pride point to their splendid list of patrons in this city and surrounding country.

Call and see them at their office Nos 2 and 4 Beach Block, south east corner of Main and Sixth streets, Terre Haute, Indiana.

PRAIRIE CITY STOVE WORKS.

The Prairie City Stove Works, E. J. King, proprietor, form a very important part of Terre Haute's manufacturing business. They were established in 1872 by Ball & King. Mr. Ball sold out to Mr. King about nine months ago. The rapidity with which this enterprise has developed into a power in the manufacturing lines proves that Mr. King is the right man in the right place, and speaks more for his talent, industry and energy than written volumes could. It is at these works that the famous "Prairie City" wood cook stove, and the "Bell" coal cook stoves are made. The "Belle" is unquestionably the best coal cooking stove in the market. Its flues are the best arranged for draft; it has the best dumping grate, the most convenient (lifting out) ash pan, and is the best calculated to prevent the escape of dust of any coal stove ever put on the market.

No one can have all the best features of coal cook stoves combined in one except by purchasing the "Belle." The "Prairie City" stands superior to all others as a wood cook stove. It is made out of the best iron, heavy casting, large furnace, and an oven that will bake equal to the best brick oven. The acknowledged superiority of these stoves has already created a large outside trade apart from an extensive local demand. These stoves are for sale by R. L. Ball, 303 Main. The works are situated on the corner of First and Eagle streets, and have a capacity for 20 hands. Such is their popularity, that these stoves are daily shipped to all parts of Western and Southern Indiana, and Eastern and Central Illinois, creating a business already of over $20,000 per annum. Such enterprise and energy should receive the support of every citizen of Terre Haute.

Mr. King also manufactures very superior heating stoves which are received with great favor wherever introduced.

THE SATURDAY EVENING MAIL.

This elegantly printed eight page family journal, conducted by P. S. Westfall—publication office, No. 15 South Fifth street—is now in its sixth year, and has enjoyed a remarkably successful career. It is prepared with great care and especial pains taken to make it an acceptable fireside visitor. While newsy, spicy and gossippy, nothing appears in its columns, that cannot be read aloud in the most refined home circle. The price of subscription is two dollars a year. In order to reach all readers in this immediate vicinity, two editions are published each week. The first edition, issued one day in advance of publication, has a very large circulation. Besides the regular issue through the mails, it is sold by newsboys and agents in sixty of the surrounding towns. The second edition, on Saturday evening, goes into the hands of nearly every reading person in the city, and the farmers of the immediate vicinity. Every week's issue is, in fact, two newspapers, but in making charges for advertisements the two editions are counted as one paper. The large editions and reasonable rates of advertising make it a popular medium for advertisers as is evidenced by its well filled columns.

WABASH WOOLEN MILLS, G. F. Ellis Proprietor, Wool Dealer, and Wholesale Manufactures of Woolens.

Among the manufacturing establishments of Terre Haute none rank higher in importance than the above. Starting in a small way in 1854, it has grown, step by step, into one of the largest establishments of its kind in the West, with a reputation for its productions second to none in the country; another evidence of the success always certain to attend perseverance, and a thorough practical knowledge of ones business.

The main building at present is 30x141 feet, three stories high and an L 40x40 feet. Three sets of 48 inch cards, 1164 spindles, and 20 looms are run, all of the latest and most improved style, having a capacity for manufacturing 200,000 yards per annum. The office and salesroom adjoining the factory and on the corner of First and Walnut streets, is of brick, 22x65 feet, two stories.

The first floor is used for retail purposes and office and the second story for wholesale. The products of these mills have a reputation "second to none" in the principal wholesale houses of St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Indianapolis and Louisville.

The proprietor, Mr G. F. Ellis, has had a practical experience of forty-five years in the business, which is a sufficient guarantee that the reputation of the mills shall not be excelled by any. Too high encomiums cannot be paid to the business qualities, perseverance and enterprise of Mr. Ellis, through the assiduous application of which he has made an eminent success of his factory.

He is wedded to the manufacturing business and has the happy combination of faculties which enables him to lay well devised plans, and proceed to their execution with an exactness and promptness that commands admiration. Understanding his business, located in a city blessed with all the advantages adapted to his wants, surrounded by a country the richest in the world for a market, he has made the "Wabash Woolen Mills" an honor to himself and the city of his location. Though well advanced in years Mr. Ellis has lost none of his energy and devotion to business, but continues to give to it his undivided attention. Long may he live to enjoy the fruits of a busy life

HARRY A. WIGLEY. Book and Job Printing House.

Harry Wigley has for the past fifteen years been connected with the newspaper and job printing interests of Terre Haute, in one occupation or an other, always filling all positions with credit to himself and profit to his employers. About July 1st, 1875, George H. Hebb and Harry A. Wigley formed a co partnership and purchased the job rooms of the Daily Express Printing Company, which they carried on very successfully together July 26th, 1876, Mr. Hebb retired and Mr. Wigley assumed entire control. He now operates one of the largest job printing houses in the city. His place of business is located at No. 15 South Fifth Street, Printing House Square, in the Daily Express building. His facilities for every description of Job Printing are unsurpassed in the city. As to the work done at this office, we need make no special mention, as the great number of specimens of beautiful work sent out from day to day are sufficient guarantee of the quality and fineness of finish given all jobs entrusted to the care of Mr. Wigley and his corps of able assistants. As a sample of the book work executed we may mention the present directory of 1876-77, which was printed at his office, and is as fine a job of printing as can be found in the State. Anything and everything in the way of job printing, blank books, railroad printing, etc., is executed in good style, and workmanlike manner. When needing anything in this line give Mr. W. a call, and our word for it, you will be satisfied with work and prices.

TERRE HAUTE HOUSE.

This magnificent hotel is one of the oldest and largest houses in the State, having been established for more than thirty years. It has recently been remodelled, modernized, and refurnished throughout, in the most elegant and costly manner, making it the equal of the best in the country. It is enough to say that the refurnishing was by Meador, of Cincinnati. It now has a capacity for accommodating two hundred guests. Its rooms are large and airy, luxuriously furnished, and fitted up with all modern improvements.

Everything about the "Terre Haute House," either in the culinary, housekeeper's, steward's departments, or office, is managed with the precision and regularity of clockwork. The new proprietor, Mr. Geo. F. Ripley, is already known far and wide for his genial, kind and obliging manners, and his thorough knowledge of the wants of the traveling public. Its location, corner Seventh and Main, is central, the street cars passing its doors every five minutes to and from the Union Depot. Its tables are always loaded with the best the market affords and a polite and attentive corps of attendants administer to every want of the tired traveler.

In the office will be found Alphonso Shaw and Charles Gordon, ever ready to receive guests, and treat them in the most polite and accommodating manner. We advise all who are desirous of real comfort to "put up" at the Terre Haute House.

EPH. CONFARE, Undertaker.

At 811 Main street, you will find one of the largest establishment of its kind in the State, occupying two floors, 20 by 160 each. Mr. Confare has had an experience of fifteen years in the business, is ever alive to his business, polite and attentive, and ready at all hours of the day or night to attend to his customers. He carries an extensive stock of all the latest styles and varieties, consisting of wood and metalic burial cases and caskets. We commend him to the public.

CAL THOMAS, Watchmaker and Optician.

Although but four years a resident of Terre Haute, no name is more familiar to its citizens, from the least to the greatest, than that of Cal Thomas. His remarkable skill as a watchmaker and optician has given him a wide-spread reputation throughout the West. He has devoted 23 years exclusively to his profession, and being naturally of an inventive and ingenious turn of mind, he has made many valuable improvements in tools and machinery peculiar to his business. His great specialty, is repairing all grades of watches for other watchmakers. To this end he keeps a full supply of the very best material, tools and fine machinery in the country. He possesses the finest regulator in the city, giving the correct time for three different meridians, and is employed by the Vandalia Line to regulate the time and keep in repair their numerous station clocks, with which correct time is so essential. Fifteen years ago he began giving his attention to the subject of optics, and after many years' study and experiment, has developed the very best spheroidal spectacle lens in the world. One which gives the fullest satisfaction in every particular. The lens is not made from cut glass, like the lenses in common use, but from Nature's own laboratory, chipped from the occidental, and ground. Their effect on the eye is different from all others, being soothing, quieting and strengthening. He possesses an ingenious apparatus for fitting spectacles to the eye, rendering failure impossible. They are highly recommended by scientific men throughout the country. He gives special attention also to fine engraving, resetting diamonds, pearls, rubies, garnets, etc., in rings single or in clusters, makes mates to sleeve buttons or ear-rings, and repairs all kinds of jewelry, etruscan green, gold and fine gold chains.

He has lately removed to the commodious and central location, 527 Main street, where, behind his "big man with watch," he can always be found, genial and pleasant, ready to receive your orders.

FOLEY BROS., Dealers in Hats, Caps and Furs.

One of the most extensive establishments of its kind in Terre Haute, or the West, is the one at 505 Main street, presided over by the Foley Bros. This enterprising firm keep all the latest styles and every grade of goods in their line.

Though a comparatively new firm their trade is already very large, resulting from their perfect fairness in dealing, the suitable quality of their goods and their ability to give reasonable figures.

To the ladies who are in want of anything in the fur goods line we would say, go to Foley Bro. You will find them as genial and pleasant gentlemen, as ever enter business in this city. Their stock is always new and fresh, embracing all the latest and noblest in their line.

GUNCK & BERRY, Wholesale Druggists.

This well known firm are located on the corner of Fourth and Main, and are the oldest representatives in their line in the city. They are the successors of J. H. Bell & Co., who established the business in 1850. This house does a large jobbing trade throughout Western Indiana and Eastern Illinois, and is known far and wide for the excellence and purity of its goods. They deal in all the the numberless variety of goods pertaining to the drug trade, and use great care in their selections and purchases, that their patrons may have the best goods, and at the lowest price in the market. Messrs. Gunck & Berry are thorough business men, skilled in the profession, and have met, as they deserve, with remarkable success in their business.

B. H. ALVEY, Grocer.

Mr. Alvey, a young man of rare business qualifications, is doing a prosperous business at 121 North Fourth street.

Commencing but a few years ago, on a small capital, his business tact and energy has already built up a business that many an older business man might be proud of. He now does a business of $30,000 per annum, with a rapidly increasing trade, and a few years will, no doubt, find him one of the leading business men of the city. He keeps a full stock of everything in the grocery and provision line, which he will sell for cash as low as the lowest.

PHILLIP SCHLOSS, Merchant Tailor and Ready Made Clothing.

To be clothed in a suit of fine material, well fitted to the form is gratifying to the major portion of the human family, hence the demand for skilled workmen in the manufacture of clothing. Among the numerous merchant tailoring establishments of Terre Haute, none enjoy a better reputation than that of Phillip Schloss.

Mr. Schloss thoroughly understands the wants of his customers and keeps a large and select stock of ready made clothing and gents' furnishing goods, besides the finest domestic and imported cloths with which man arrays himself, ready to be converted to order by skilled workmen into garments of elegance and comfort.

He established his business in 1867, since which time it has grown to its present immense proportions, giving employment to thirty hands and doing an annual business of from $50,000 to $100,000.

This house is located at 129, Main street, occupying three stories 20x124 each, and is one of the largest and finest in the West. Its reputation is established far and wide, and is not surpassed by any house in the State. To gents fond of being arrayed in fine apparel, artistically designed and finished, we would say go to Schloss, and give Mr. Baldwin Kloer, his accomplished cutter, your measure

BOYDSTON & BROWN, Attorneys at Law.

This old and reliable law firm occupy commodious rooms in the second story front of the Grand Opera House, corner Fourth and Main streets. They have been for many years in successful practice, and have attained an eminent position for attainments and integrity at the bar of Terre Haute. They are the financial agents of George P. Bissell & Co., bankers, of Hartford, Conn., and have the endorsement of the National State Bank and First National Banks of Terre Haute, the Equitable Trust Co., of New York, and many other prominent parties at home and abroad who are among their clients.

J. A. & T. W. PARKER, Proprietors Eagle Iron Works.

This is an extensive establishment located at 201 and 203 South First street. It is one of the oldest establishments of its kind in the State, having been in operation over thirty years. Its present energetic proprietors succeeded Wm. J. Ball & Co. six years ago, and have succeeded in building up an immense business, their trade extending all over the West and Southwest. They now give employment to fifty skilled workmen, and do an annual business of from $150,000 to $180,000. They manufacture steam engines, coal skutts, flour and saw-mill machinery, bank cars, testing drills, steel and cast iron scrapers, cane mills, railroad crossings, troughs, &c., and are also agents for Knowles' steam pump and Rue's patent injector.

MILLER & COX, Clothiers and Merchant Tailors, 522 Main street.

The subjects of this sketch are one of the most prominent firms of Terre Haute, and are well known in the counties of Parke, Vermillion, Clay, Vigo and Sullivan, both having been born and raised as neighbors in Raccoon township, Parke county, Indiana

They came to this city and formed a partnership as clothiers and merchant tailors in 1870, since which time, perhaps, no firm in the city has enjoyed a more healthy and prosperous growth, or received a more liberal patronage. They enjoy an enviable reputation for fair dealing, honesty and uprightness, in all their business transactions. Their reputation either at home or abroad is unsurpassed. The members of the firm, as is well known by all who have had dealings with them, are gentlemen in the fullest sense of the term, being courteous, agreeable and accommodating to all Their motto has always been, "Quick sales and small profits," and in following this, have given satisfaction to their customers as well as themselves, having to-day a trade that any firm might justly feel proud of, reaching, as it does, in all directions from Terre Haute a distance of from 25 to 50 miles

The great secret of their success in the midst of so many failures is this :

First. They purchase for cash, and cash only, thereby securing to themselves and their customers the benefit of heavy discounts

Second. They purchase the best of goods, and of first-class manufacturers, no Shoddy goods being allowed to enter their establishment when known.

Third. They have one of the best cutters west of New York, never failing to give satisfaction, as hundreds that have patronized the establishment will testify, that none but the best of artists are employed in their manufacturing department

Fourth Both members of this firm are workingmen, their entire time and energy being spent in their establishment.

Mr. Miller for the last ten years has been known to be a close observer of the business, and is acknowledged to be one of the best judges of goods pertaining to their line of trade Want of space forbids a more extended notice of this favorite and prosperous firm, but we must say in conclusion that, this being a strictly cash house, people who buy of this establishment do not pay for loss on bad creditors. But visit the establishment, and you can satisfy yourselves at once of the fact; 522 Main street.

MILLER & ARLETH, manufacturers of Collars, Saddles and Harness.

The senior member of this firm established the business in 1865, and by industry and careful management, turning out none but first-class work, he soon gained an extensive patronage.

As the business increased it became necessary to take in a partner, and in 1873 Mr. Charles Arleth, entered the firm. The new firm immediately commenced the manufacture of horse collars on a large scale, which has been their leading business since. Besides an extensive local retail trade, they enjoy a large wholesale patronage throughout Indiana and Illinois. Twenty men find employment in manufacturing harness and saddles of every known variety and style.

They occupy the large three story building 17 South Fourth street, 26X80 feet for storage and salesroom, and an adjoining building 18X50 feet for workshops The first floor of the main building is occupied as salesroom where everything in their line can always be found. They also keep a full line of every style and price of saddles, in which they do a large wholesale trade.

TERRE HAUTE EVENING AND WEEKLY GAZETTE.

The Gazette was started in 1868 as a weekly newspaper, publishing two editions during the week, one on Thursday for country subscribers, and the other on Saturday evening for city consumption. It filled from the first a want long felt. During the year of its existence as a weekly, its chief editor was shot at and hit once, made a fortune, and established a reputation. He became so much envied that he was beleagured with applicants for purchase. Out of several hundred prospective purchasers he finally selected Messrs Hudson & Rose. They at once began the publication of an afternoon daily, (continuing still) and weekly, which had then, as it now has, an unrivalled circulation. Messrs. Hudson & Rose amassed fortunes and reputations, and retired to enjoy the fruits of their labors in November, 1872. Messrs. Ball & Dickerson were its purchasers, and a new era of unprecedented prosperity dawned upon the paper. Each year has witnessed enlargements and improvements until it is at the present time admitted by everybody (excepting Captain S. H. Potter,) to be the best and most moral newspaper in Indiana, as it has long been acknowledged to have the largest circulation and the greatest influence. Everybody who has touched it has become famous Its founder was the founder of the Ague Belt Greenback party. Its first purchasers have retired as capitalists. Of those connected with it since, Mr. Dickerson is managing editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, Mr. Skeele, news and base ball editor of the St. Louis Republican, Mr. Saunders, Washington correspondent of a leading Chicago paper, and Mr. Voorhees a rising young actor. Its present proprietors are generally acknowledged to be the best the paper ever had. Price 15 cents per week; no dead heads.

HUB, SPOKE, FELLOE AND WHEEL FACTORY of Keyes & Sykes, cor. First and Poplar streets.

Of the numerous manufacturing establishments of Terre Haute none rank higher in magnitude and importance than the one named above.

It was established in 1865 by S. H. Thompson and H. Keyes, under the firm name of Thompson & Keyes, employing a capital of $15,000 and working some twenty men, meeting with varied success, gradually increasing facilities and business, until in 1872 Mr Thompson retired and John H Sykes became a partner, under the firm name of Keyes & Sykes. At this time a decided change was made in the goods manufactured, and manner of doing business, by the introduction of improved machinery, and a specialty made of the manufacture of "Keyes' Patent Wheel." But they continued the manufacture of all wheel material as usual. From this time on, the business rapidly increased and extended, until now their wheel can be found in nearly every State in the union, and so carefully has every minute detail been watched that their goods stand the highest in the market. The old quarters which were ample in 1865 becomming too cramped and inconvenient, they have just erected a new and commodious building on North Thirteenth street, (Belleview Place), of sufficient capacity to work two hundred hands, and occupying in all several acres of ground, which will be altogether the most complete and best arranged works of the kind in the West.

The capital origionally invested has doubled several times, and the number of hands increased to about eighty Special attention is given to the preparation of the choicest material for wheels which is made of second growth hickory, and of which they keep on hand over a half million spokes in various stages of preparation, and turn out daily about fifty sets of buggy wheels and 6000 to 7000 spokes with hubs and felloes in proportion.

MRS. E. B. MESSMORE, Hair Work, Hair Jewelry, etc.

It is a subject of frequent inquiry among the ladies where they can obtain the most excellent switches, the best false hair, etc. The establishment of Mrs. Messmore is sufficient answer to all such inquiries Mrs. M. has had an experience of eight years, and has no superior as a hair dresser and manufacturer. She makes a specialty of converting combings into switches and curls as nice as cut hair. The work is speedy and perfect, converting your bunches of combings into curls, with every root uppermost, as they grew on the head. Switches made in this way are in every respect as perfect as cut hair.

Save your combings and have Mrs. Messmore convert them into "things of beauty, etc." She keeps a full line of all grades and colors of switches, curls, &c.

Remember the place, 511½, Main street.

ESTHER HOUSE.

This new candidate for public favor is located at 122 North Ninth street, Mrs. Sarah Padgett Proprietress. Mrs. Padgett has been a resident of Terre Haute for many years and is well and favorably known. To those who want a quiet, nice, refined boarding place, away from the noise and confusion of business, we advise them to put up at the Esther house. They will find the landlady genial and pleasant, and ever ready and anxious to please and render their stay with her agreeable.

T.H. RIDDLE, Wholesale and Retail Dealer in Millinery Goods, Trimmings, Jewelry, Fancy and Variety Goods, etc.

No name is more familiar to the citizens of Terre Haute than the one heading this article.

Mr. Riddle came to this city in 1865, unknown and with very small capital, and opened up business in a small room on North Fourth street. By close personal attention to business and a happy faculty of pleasing his customers he soon found it necessary to find larger quarters, and in the spring of 1867 he removed to his present spacious rooms. He at first occupied the room jointly with a jewelry store. He soon, however, had to have more room to accommodate his increasing business, and occupied three-fourths until 1869, when he bought out the jewelry store and run it in connection with his other business. As his business continued to increase he successively occupied the whole of the first, second and third floors, and in 1872 he was able to purchase the building and add an extension of forty feet. He now occupies the entire building from cellar to garret, and finds his room inadequate to accommodate his increased business, which now foots up to over $100,000 annually.

The first floor is devoted to the retail trade, consisting of Millinery, Jewelry and Fancy goods. The second and third floors are used for his wholesale trade in Millinery, Straw Goods, Ribbons, Notions, etc., which he sells all over Western Indiana and Eastern and Central Illinois as far west as Springfield and south to Cairo. He duplicates bills bought in Cincinnati, Indianapolis or Chicago, so his customers have the advantage of a home market at as low prices as distant ones. His jewelry trade is very large, equaling, if not exceeding any other house in the city. He has always made it a point to sell goods on their merit, so customers can always rely on his goods being just as represented.

Personally, Mr. Riddle is a courteous, affable gentleman, attentive and anxious to please his customers Call on him, and when you examine his goods and learn his prices, you are sure to purchase.

ST. CLAIR HOUSE, J. B. Hughes & Son, Proprietors.

This fine hotel, located on the southwest corner of Main and Second streets, is an imposing looking building, four stories high, and contains seventy rooms, all large, airy, well lighted and elegantly furnished.

Special attention has been given to the accommodation of commercial travelers, by way of constructing spacious rooms, fitted with every convenience for their purpose.

Street cars pass the door every ten minutes, and a line of busses to and from all trains. Messrs. J. B. Hughes & Son, Proprietors, are by nature hotel men, and know just how to run a first-class house, sparing no pains or expense to please their guests. The tables are par excellence and charges moderate.

Traveling men cannot find a more desirable or convenient house, and if excellent fare, elegant rooms and strict attention, with a desire to please, are any inducements, they will not regret stopping there. (See index to advertisers.)

J. C. KELLY, Dealer in Coal.

J. C. Kelly is one of the largest operators in coal in this city, or in the State. His offices are at 101 and 915 Main street. Mr. Kelly is one of the oldest citizens of Terre Haute, having come here in 1835. For the past fifteen years he has been engaged in the coal trade and has met with marked success. He is a wide-awake, enterprising man, thoroughly acquainted with his business, of undoubted integrity, and untiring energy. The coal trade has grown to massive proportions under his management, averaging the past year over one hundred carloads per month. He is about opening a mine of his own at Brazil which will give him increased facilities for meeting the demands of his rapidly increasing business.

W. E. HENDRICH, Attorney at Law and Abstract Office.

Mr. Hendrich has secured, after years of patient labor and great expense a complete title abstract of all the real estate in Vigo county. These give him superior facilities for gathering information in regard to any imperfections in titles. This, with his knowledge of the law, enables him to render correct decisions on the validity of questionable titles. To those wishing to purchase or seek advice in real estate transactions, Mr. Hendrich offers a combination of advantages possessed by no other man in the city.

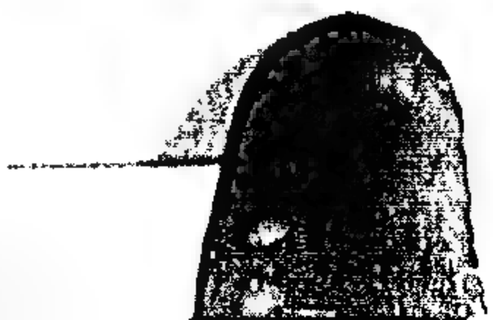
ALEXANDER & CO. Wholesale Dealers in Liquors, Cigars and Oysters.

At 612 Main street may be found the extensive establishment named above. This firm became the successors of T. J. Langford four years ago, and have met with marked success in their business. They are industrious and energetic, and are always found at their post. They exert every effort to keep their stock in a complete condition, not obliging their customers to go elsewhere for good selections. Keeping nothing but the purest and best goods in the market, they have established a reputation which enables them to transact a business of $40,000 per annum. The best brands of cigars and oysters and the purest and best wines and liquors can always be depended on from their house.



BUNTIN & ARMSTRONG, Druggists and Manufacturing Pharmacists.

This large and elegant establishment, located at 600 Main street, has for several years done the leading retail and prescription business of the city.

The prescription department is in charge of a gentleman "raised to the business," and a graduate of the Philadelphia Pharmacy. Their excellent location—in the very center of business—finely appointed store and well selected stock, has given this enterprising firm a prominence they well deserve. They are pioneers in the trade here, in the importation of the finest brands of toilet articles, powders, perfumery soaps, etc., and pride themselves on being able to duplicate any article found in the best drug stores in Eastern cities.

In the spring of 1872 Messrs. Buntin & Armstrong ventured to commence the manufacture of medical preparations; Elixors, Syrups, Wines, and Lozenges. These preparations are made for the special use of physicians, after formulas known and approved by them, and had previously been manufactured in New York, Philadelphia and Boston, and the trade supplied from those cities. They introduced these preparations to the trade tributary to Terre Haute, the first year, by placing samples of them in the hands of the physicians, and exhibiting them before the medical societies.

They exhibited them before the American Medical Society at their annual meeting in Detroit, in June, 1874, and again in May, 1875, in Louisville. They have also exhibited them before the State Medical Societies of Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky, and before the American Pharmaceutical Association, resulting in the most favorable endorsement from several of these distinguished bodies, testifying to the elegance and entire reliability of the preparations of their manufacture.

The demand for them has grown until they are being bought and dispensed by the best prescription druggists in the States above named, and the wholesale druggists of Indianapolis, Louisville, Lexington, Evansville, Cincinnati, Toledo, Detroit, Chicago, Bloomington, Peoria, and Quincy are sending orders for them regularly to supply their trade. While they consider their business but just beginning, their sales for the past twelve months have exceeded 3,000 pounds, amounting to $35,000, giving employment to ten men and boys in their preparation and handling. They advertise through the medical journals, and direct to physicians by Formulas, Books, catalogues, etc. The senior member of the firm, Mr. Buntin, superintends the work of the laboratory, making every compound himself, devoting all his time to this important part of their business, and to this fact may undoubtedly be attributed the unvarying uniformity in appearance and medicinal strength of their preparations, which has given them such encouraging success.

KISSNER'S PALACE OF MUSIC.

213 Ohio street. This is the oldest music store in Terre Haute, or in Western Indiana, having been established in 1804.

In 1868 it was destroyed by fire, but with the recuperative energy of a "Phœnix," Mr. Kissner raised it from its ashes larger and stronger than ever. Mr. Kissner has made his a life business and has earned the reward always sure to follow perserverence and a thorough knowledge of ones business. He is agent for the celebrated Knabe and Cycloid Pianos, besides carrying a large stock of everything in his line.

We advise any one wanting anything in his line to call and examine his splendid stock before purchasing elsewhere.

THE NATIONAL HOUSE.

The "National" is a favorite with the traveling public. It is located in the heart of the city, corner 6th and Main streets, and under the proprietorship of Messrs. Heinly & McCoskey, has earned a widespread and deserved popularity. When you visit the city give them a call, and we venture to say you will not regret it.

MRS. T. H. RIDDLE, Millinery, Ladies Furnishing Goods, and Agent for "Butterick's Patterns."

Few, if any, ladies in Terre Haute are unacquainted with Mrs. Riddle and her fine selection of goods at No 12 South Fourth street. Mrs. Riddle is a forcible example of what indomitable courage, perseverence and energy will accomplish. Twelve years ago she with her husband came to this city and opened a small store at No. 18 North Fourth Street with notions and sewing machines. In two years their increasing business demanded larger quarters, and they moved to Mr. T. H. Riddle's present location on Main street, and remained there until 1873, when Mrs. Riddle, having obtained the agency for "Butterick's Patterns," opened rooms over the store, where her business increased so rapidly that soon more room was demanded, and she moved to No. 325 Main Recently she moved to her present quarters on Fourth street. Mrs. Riddle commenced business on a very small capital, but with an energy and perseverence worthy of all praise, she has surmounted every barrier, and now finds herself in the enjoyment of a competency, and the largest retail trade in her line in the city. Everything of the best quality and latest style may always be found at her store, as the ladies well know. She also manufactures and deals in all kinds of [illegible] goods. She still retains the agency for "Butterick's Pattern," keeping constantly on hand patterns of the latest styles for everything of feminine wear.

ST. MARY'S ACADEMIC INSTITUTE, for the Education of Young Ladies.

St. Mary's is one of the oldest educational institutions in the West. It was founded in 1840 and incorporated by the Sisters of Providence in 1846. It is delightfully situated amid rural scenery, four miles west of Terre Haute at St Mary's of the Woods, on the I. & St. L. railroad. Its location is healthy and pleasant, surrounded by ample grounds, beautifully embellished, affording opportunities for healthful physical exercise with all the seclusion and retirement of private grounds. The buildings are very spacious and fitted up with every comfort and convenience.

The scholastic course embraces three departments. The Primary, the Intermediate and the Senior; each department has two divisions. Special attention is given to the cultivation of the moral character and the development of virtuous sentiments in connection with mental culture The higher branches, such as Vocal and Instrumental Music, Drawing and Painting, Oil Painting and the study of the Languages are taught by competent teachers. For full particulars send for Prospectus.

RICHARD STROUT, Civil Engineer.

The subject of this sketch has been engaged in civil engineering on canals, railroads and in cities for over thirty years, at times filling highly responsible positions, and always to the entire satisfaction of his employers, and with great credit to himself. Twenty-five years ago he was a citizen of Terre Haute and superintendent of the Wabash and Erie canal. He was subsequently a resident of Minneopolis, Minnesota, six years, during which time he was high sheriff of the most populous county of that State, in 1859 and 1860. In 1861 he raised Company B, of the Ninth Minnesota Volunteers, and commanded the same through 1862 and 1863. On returning to Terre Haute he was elected City Engineer which he has held for the past ten years. During this time he has furnished Terre Haute with a book of city grades, the most elaborate and complete work of the kind in the West. Mr. Strout is a genial and pleasant gentleman, courteous and obliging in his intercourse with others, and withal a thorough enthusiast in his profession, to which he has devoted the best years of his life.

St. Mary's of the Woods.

St. Mary's Academic Institute.

St. Mary's of the Woods,

Vigo County, Indiana.

This Institution conducted by the Sisters of Providence is situated about four miles from Terre Haute, at a very short distance from the Indianapolis and St. Louis Railroad. The spacious and elegant academic building is beautifully furnished, and affords every accommodation necessary for the pleasure, comfort, and health of the pupils, being well supplied with all the modern conveniences such as warm, cold and shower baths, etc. The apartments are large, airy, and thoroughly ventilated, while at the same time the heating apparatus is sufficient to permit the entire building to be comfortably warmed. The spacious recreation fields and extensive cloisters invite to proper exercise even when the weather does not allow outdoor amusements. The pleasure grounds are tastefully and artistically laid out, and well shaded by fine forest trees, presenting every requirement to healthful and invigorating exercises. Special care is taken of the health of the pupils.

Experience proves that uniformity of dress will prevent much extravagance, and destroy a spirit of rivalry in dress too common among young ladies; consequently, the pupils must be supplied with the Uniform described in the Prospectus.

The Scholastic Year consists of two sessions, each comprising a period of ten months; the first commences on the 1st of September and ends January 31; the second begins the 1st of February and terminates on the last Wednesday in June, with the exercises of a Commencement Day. The Academic Course embraces three departments: The Primary, Intermediate, and Senior; each department has two divisions. In this system are comprised all the studies that are requisite for a thorough and accomplished education.

To cultivate a taste for intellectual pleasures, as well as to form an easy, graceful deportment, weekly entertainments are held. These consist of Musical Readings, Essays, and Illustrations of the various Arts and Sciences, serve also to excite pleasantly to a laudable emulation.

A Bulletin, giving an account of the behavior and progress of each student, is transmitted to parents and guardians at the close of the second session.
